Customer Data Protection » Excluding Customers from Customer Activity

Customer Activity was previously built for all customer records. The enhanced Customer Activity framework now allows banks to exclude or remove certain types of customers from Customer Activity processing. This is enabled using a new parameter application, `ST . REG . EXCLUDE . PARAM`.

Following are the benefits of this functionality:

- The ability to remove or exclude certain types of customers from Customer Activity processing, therefore reducing the amount of records for Customer Activity processing.
- It provides banks more control on the customers for whom Customer Activity is built.
